

US Submarine Veterans (USSVI)

Information generally and links to their 160+ 'bases' with contact info. They have over 12,000 members.

US Branch of the International Submariners Association is, frankly, a better place to start than the ISA website itself. Separate from the USSVI.

Submarines Association Australia

Links to all eight of their 'branches' including contact information.

International Community of Submariners Associations.

Holds international conventions annually all over the world.

Submariners Association of the United Kingdom. They have 51 Branches nationally and 5 internationally.

Like the USA ISA, the British International group are a separate Association, though some individuals will belong to both. Formed in 1962, they were a founding member of ISA.

CFB Esquimalt Naval & Military Museum. An excellent site and visit if you get the opportunity.

Halifax's Admiralty House National Historic Site of Canada is home to the Maritime Command Museum. From 1819 to 1904 it was home to the C-in-C of the RN's NA Station.
